Home Brewery Name: Curly Tail Brewing

Years Brewing: Wine/Cider: 10+ years, Beer: 2 years

What are your favorite styles to brew? Right now, I'm enjoying the experience of brewing everything I can. With the exception of NEIPAs, I haven't brewed the same style twice. There's just so many to brew....!!

What got you into brewing? My father-in-law wanted to start making his own wine so we got into that hobby together. That was also a big time for the craft-brewing industry in Colorado and being a huge craft beer enthusiast, I developed an interest in wanting to brew.... But.... My wife kept putting me off.....however, in the end.... She let me build a brewery in our home!!

Current Brewing Rig: SPIKE 3-vessel system

What Brew Day Rules do you follow?

1. Start early
2. No matter how many times I've done a step, I still talk my way through each step just to make sure I don't miss anything
3. Sanitize EVERYTHING

Most influential brewing tip you learned:

I've had the pleasure of brewing with several REB members and each experience was excellent. But, my brew day with Don Russell was enlightening. He had a ton of stuff going on all at once, but the one point he emphasized was this: Find YOUR process and stick with it. It took me a bit to really grasp that, but now I really understand what he was telling me. No one knows my set-up better than me and I know how I want to brew my batches and I follow that process every time and my beers continue to get better.

Your tip for new brewers just getting started: I'm going to have to quote REB stalwart Don Russell: "Find a repeatable process that works for you." And I'll add "Don't try and brew like someone else because they make great homebrew....everyone is a bit different.... And everyone has stood in those same shoes..... Also, good prep work the evening before helps you start out your brew day more efficient and on time....."
